The book series Global Perspectives on Legal History opens up the legal history of Europe to the history of its global connections. It publishes monographs as well as edited volumes which transcend the established boundaries of national legal scholarship and focus on different modes of normativity and law as well as on their historical development.

 The peer-reviewed series addresses the global research community also in terms of its format. From its outset in 2014, it was designed as a multilingual Open Access publication series. GPLH primarily appears online, freely accessible to everyone on the Institute's homepage and via online services that are also committed to Open Access: JSTOR, OAPEN, DOAB, The Internet Archive and soon in Project MUSE.

The Nature of the PT Governments: A Variety of Neoliberalism? Part 2, March 2020

Latin American Perspectives is a multidisciplinary journal that welcomes a variety of theoretical and political perspectives to analyze capitalism, imperialism, and socialism in the Americas and strategies to transform the region's sociopolitical structures. Most issues focus on a single problem, nation, or region, providing an in-depth analysis from scholars and participants in social change.

"Latin American Perspectives is the most important resource available providing in-depth progressive analyses of developments in Latin America. It is the unmissable journal!"

—Alfredo Saad Filho, SOAS, University of London

The Critical Race, Indigeneity, and Relationality series, edited by Antonio T. Tiongson Jr., Danika Medak-Saltzman, and Iyko Day, showcases comparative studies of race, ethnicity, and indigeneity in projects that take a self-reflexive approach in their deployment of relational frameworks and analytics, and seeks projects that are grounded in, and build upon, the theoretical insights and methodologies of women of color feminism and queer of color critique as they engage with Native theorizing, Indigeneity, and settler colonial paradigms.
