

We are pleased to announce that the 2026 Call for Proposals for the Cebrap International Postdoctoral Program (IPP), in São Paulo, Brazil, is now open.

In keeping with Cebrap's interdisciplinary tradition, the IPP will select up to 10 researchers with PhDs whose interests align with those of Cebrap's research groups.

The program is primarily remote, with occasional hybrid activities. It runs for two years and may be extended for up to an additional two years.

Although the program does not provide funding, Cebrap will support applicants in seeking fellowships from institutions such as FAPESP, among others.

Proposals are due by March 5, 2026.

If there is interest in learning more about the research currently being developed within the Program, it is possible to attend our Open Seminars, held both in person and online. The next seminar will take place on December 11, 2025 — see details here.
